How We Help

NONPROFIT GRANTS

Douglas County Community Foundation works with private, corporate, and governmental donors to help maximize their philanthropy. DCCF also provides regular granting opportunities for nonprofits in Douglas County. We currently manage a variety of private and public grant funds, including the Douglas County Has Heart fund and the Douglas County Philip S. Miller fund.

NONPROFIT CONSULTANCY

Douglas County Community Foundation provides guidance and consultancy services to nonprofits based in Douglas County. These services are shared without charge to help our nonprofit partners have the tools and guidance to thrive. Additionally, we help connect local nonprofits with resources and opportunities for them to better serve their individual foundation missions.

DOUGLAS COUNTY GIVES

As the regional champion for Colorado Gives Day, Douglas County Community Foundation manages and assists our Douglas County Gives nonprofits through the Colorado Gives Day fundraising program. Our expertise in philanthropy as well as marketing and promotion allows participating nonprofits a unique and powerful opportunity to raise funds and receive matching grants in December of each year.

COMMUNITY EMERGENCY RELIEF FUND

Douglas County Community Foundation is positioned to be the point resource for financial, emotional and operational reinforcements during a crisis situation. Thanks to the generous financial contributions of donors, we have established a Community Emergency Relief fund which can be quickly accessed and distributed to those in Douglas County who need it most, when they need it most. The Foundation is agile in vetting, managing and tracking fund recipients to assure maximum efficacy as we partner with DougCo Emergency Management and other municipal partners.
