Douglas County Community Foundation COVID-19 Response Plan

Given the current situation regarding the coronavirus (also known as COVID-19) and its impact on public health, the Douglas County Community Foundation (DCCF) has implemented the following measures, with the health and well-being of our staff, donors, grantees, community, and other partners in mind. As a community foundation, focusing on the Douglas County, Colorado area, we want to do everything possible to decrease the spread of this virus and support our community to the greatest extent possible.

Our policies and decision-making are based on recommendations and guidance provided by our local Tri-County Health Department, who is monitoring public health information from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment. DCCF will be working as diligently as ever, remotely, and meetings will be conducted via telephone and teleconference through at least April 30. We will not be hosting events or workshops during this time.

At this time of uncertainty regarding the economy, events, and closures, we want to be available to our donors, grantees, local nonprofits, and community members and organizations. Staff is available and happy to schedule time to discuss any concerns or uncertainties you may have.

Emergency Funding

The DCCF will have emergency grant funding available for local nonprofits experiencing budgetary impacts due to the coronavirus. We anticipate that healthcare facilities and programs, food banks and delivery programs, housing and homeless shelters, mental health and youth programs, workforce development centers and COVID—19 prevention communications may experience increased requests for services and a need for more financial resources. We will provide regular updates as the situation evolves. Please don’t hesitate to contact us with any concerns or questions at foundation@dccf.org.
